

Additional insurance and/or a value to increase the liability of the service provider:

ZEISS has signed a general insurance for transportation. For courier-, express-or parcel services (CEP) the shipper is therefore not permitted to arrange an additional insurance and/or a value to increase the liability of the service provider if not mentioned differently in the individual purchase order. The field („Total Declared Value for Carriage“) on the shipping label and/or waybill is not to be filled.

Example of a FedEx-waybill:

(comparable on waybills/labels of other service providers)

The image shows a FedEx International Air Waybill form. A blue magnifying glass is positioned over the 'Total Declared Value for Carriage' field, which is highlighted with a red rectangular border. The form includes various sections for sender and recipient information, service options, and a signature area. The 'Total Declared Value for Carriage' field is currently empty. To its right, the 'Total Value for Customs (Specify Currency)' field is also empty. The form number 1234 5678 901C and the tracking number 0402 are visible at the bottom right.
